

WHAT IS NET ?

Neuro Emotional Technique TM

Neuro Emotional Technique (NET) is a mind-body approach which allows doctors to normalise unresolved physical and / or behavioural patterns by making a physiological correction.

Emotions are traditionally considered as being part of the normal functions in human beings and normally not creating any neurophysiological problem. However, occasionally emotional traumas in the presence of neurological or meridian deficits can cause physiopathological-related patterns in the body which do not resolve by themselves.

In NET specific physical interventions are used to trigger physiological changes which in turn lead to a normalisation of neurophysiological patterns.

NET does not treat emotions, but rather the whole mind-body complex in the presence of an unresolved emotional issue. NET effectively addresses “fixations of emotions” held within the body which can be potentially re-triggered under specific conditions. The result is a more neurologically integrated and healthier person. Patients report that this quick and easy process is pleasant and life changing.
